Bloom

Bloom is a multi flexible furniture concept for all kinds of waiting areas. Bloom can be arranged and linked in an infinite number of shapes and variations in accordance with the room or the purpose. It gives architects and interior designers multiple options to create bold and unique solutions that meet contemporary demands of human behavior and interaction. With Bloom you allow shapes and colors to play an important role in the interior design – it literally enables spaces to Bloom. The easy linking system allows each unit to be repositioned, which makes it highly flexible.

Designed by Troels Grum-Schwensen

Troels Grum-Schwensen's studio was established in 1989. He has an innovative approach and often finds simple and minimized solutions to design challenges - always exploiting the possibilities and limits of the materials he works with. Educated as an architect, Troels Grum-Schwensen regards furniture, not solely as objects, but also as pieces of architecture.
